REFORMATION

Of the Calendar Since the Birth of Washington.

According to the Old Rule Be Was Born on Feb. 11.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS.

Only 163 years have elapsed since the birth of George Washington, yet the date seems remote, so much has occurred since then, the conditions of life have so radically changed, that it seems much farther away than it is in fact. Among the changes that have taken place is the reformation of the calendar. At the time was counted then in England and America Washington was born on the 11th of February. The date has been altered to correspond with the change of the calendar made twenty years later, but it is worthy of remark that the same course has not been pursued with reference to the birthdays of some other distinguished men.

The recurrence of the anniversary of the birth of Washington does not call for any elaborate dissertation upon his life and character. That has been done so often that his pre-eminent rank among the great men of the world is perfectly secure, and his services to the country are generally recognized. It may be said, indeed, that there has been in recent years a reaction from the extreme views with reference to Washington which once prevailed among his countrymen. Critical historians have gone to even unnecessary pains to show that he was not the demigod that some of his eulogists have sought to make him, but a man of like passions with others. There is no reason why any one should deny this, nor was it difficult to ascertain. On the contrary, it is because the Father of his country was a man of like passions with others that he deserves in such ample measure the gratitude and admiration of his country.

With all his human weakness, he was always faithful to his public obligations, unfaltering in his fidelity to his country. He has given us the best example that history affords, not merely of persistent devotion to country, but of the most sublime abnegation of honor which he might easily have clutched had his loyalty to principle been less sincere and indomitable. Of all the great leaders of men, ancient and modern, he remains in a class by himself.—Courier-Journal.

A BRILLIANT AFFAIR. Special Announcement For Lecture by the C. W. B. M.

We are pleased to call attention to the lectures on electricity, illustrated by experiments by Mr. Louis Favaro. The many practical applications of this force in recent years and its immense possibilities in our near future have aroused a wide-spread interest in his fascinating subject.

We recall that in order to popularize the subject, technical and dry details must be avoided and the subject presented in an entertaining and even an amusing manner. This is Mr. Favaro's forte, and he is alone in his field.

The elaborate and costly display of apparatus that he uses was designed by him and constructed especially to attain the maximum combination, and the large number of strikingly interesting experiments performed at frequent intervals during these lectures sustain the interest and enthusiasm from beginning to end and preclude the possibility of dullness. As an experimenter and manipulator Mr. Favaro is unsurpassed.

We can confidently assure our patrons that they will find this entertainment admirably adapted to relieve the monotony of the usual course of literary lectures. Wherever Mr. Favaro has appeared his lecture has proved to be the novel feature of the course, creating a great interest and attracting a large audience.

1900 CENSUS

Requires Farmers to Make Written Record of Their Operations.

Extensive preparations are being made by the Census Bureau for the taking of the census in 1900. According to a table prepared at the Census Bureau, 1350 enumerators will be employed to do this work in Kentucky.

The Bureau has also engaged a circular, urging that all farmers make written records of their farm operations for the present year, so as to facilitate the work of the enumerators when they call upon them next June.

The law requires for each farm the total acreage, acres improved, acres unimproved, acres irrigated, number of acres owned by occupant, value of farm, and number of acres leased or rented by occupant, value of buildings and permanent improvements, value of machinery, implements, vehicles, etc. thereon, acreage and quantity of crops raised in 1899, number and value on hand June 1, 1899, and quantity and value made in 1899.

The Music of Childhood's Happy Laugh.

Strike with hand of fire, O weird musician, thy harping with Apollo's golden hair; fit the wasteful aisles with symphonies sweet and dim, soft touch of the organ keys; blow, blugger, blow until the silver notes do touch and kiss; the moonlight waves, and charm the lowers wandering midst the vine-and-hill; but, know, your sweetest strains are discord all, compared with childhood's happy laugh—the laugh that fills the eyes with light and every heart with Joy—ligerous.

The United States Postoffice authorities are preparing to begin a new plan in the sale of stamp book form. The public will be able to buy stamps in this way in collections worth $1, $10, $25 and $50 all conveniently put up and in shape to be kept neatly and always ready for use. Those who have much correspondence will undoubtedly appreciate this arrangement, and the sale of the stamp books will likely be very large.

FRANKFORT,

The Capital of a Great Commonwealth Sits in Gloom.

Nothing of a Surprising Nature

Can Happen Now.

A SAD, SORROWFUL PICTURE.

Last week in writing about Frankfort, "Faison" says:

"The ghost of a capital is the old town to day—he ghost of her old self, she—in and shivers in the snow, with the howling hills about her, dumb, weary, white and the wings of death in all the atmosphere. People, about whom who used to breath, and shuffle footsteps, seeming to shut each other on the streets. There is never a smile seen or a laugh heard, never a merry group on the corner, no, a dozen or more negroes, stable men and caretakers, who came up with the Kentucky horses consigned to the sale, happy that their work was finished and they were about to start for their Bluegrass home, gathered on the North side of the garden, and "Old Kentucky Home" and other melodies of the South, after the master of field hands on the plantations when the day's work is done. For a moment the crowd could not realize who was going out, but as the clear, full voices of the Kentucky blacks filled the great garden, conversation ceased until the last note of the song died away, when there was a burst of applause such as has been seldom heard in Madison Square Garden.—New York Herald.

$10,000 Bala

Furnished and Sutton is Relas
ed From Custody.

Sheriff Sutton, of Whitley county, one of the men arrested in connection with the Goebel murder, was released from jail at Frankfort, early last week. His bond was set at $10,000, and the United States Clerk there acting in the power of an attorney for prominent men over the State, furnished the amount of bail.

"Old Kentucky Home."

As the crowd was assembling at Madison Square Garden for the winds of the Faug-Tipton sale, a dozen or more negroes, stable men and caretakers, who came up with the Kentucky horses consigned to the sale, happy that their work was finished and they were about to start for their pockets "little canons" and began a bombardment equal to that of the historic Santiago campaign and the strangers who were evidently not in the habit of smoking smoke and thinking possibly they would become another Moro Castle, started to leave the scene of action in a great hurry. Jacob, more fortunate than the rest, was close to a window through which he made his exit carrying the sash on his shoulders.

Reuben, at this juncture cried out, "Jaky waits for me," but Jaky thought he had done his part in making the opening, and responded "Wait the devil, I'm gone."

But Jaky was handicapped, the sash somewhat putting a check to his flight and he was soon overtaken by his two friends.

They entered the hotel lobby simultaneously and each proceeded in his own way to tell of the terrible catastrophe. Jaky still bearing the sash as a silent witness. And the hotel clerk had to drown his surprise and fears in several glasses of red lemonade before he could fully comprehend the situation.

Jacob and his friends left the city the next day safer but wiser men.

Taylor's Grand Stand Play.

Gov. Taylor, the dispatcher state, went to church in Frankfort Sunday without a military escort.

It is evident that the cry of insurrection and revolution in Kentucky is no longer a good card and the display of fear by Gov. Taylor and the requirement of cavalry, infantry and artillery to escort him on his way to church or about the streets was only a grand stand play.—

The Blue Wing Gang Takes Three

"Innocents," Out to See

THE CITY BY MOONLIGHT

The gay boys of our city had great fun one night not long since. Three gentlemen of questionable nationality—who we will call Jacob, Reuben and Moses—who had been sojourning here for several days expressed a desire to see the city by moonlight or electric light.

The Blue Wing Gang hearing of this tendered its services to Jacob and his friends and proceeded to show them a good time generally. All was as merry as "marry-hallows" until a couple in the gang got into a dispute over some trivial matter and pulled from their pockets "little canons" and began a bombardment equal to that of the historic Santiago campaign and the strangers who were evidently not in the habit of smoking smoke and thinking possibly they would become another Moro Castle.

Acting upon these suggestions the undersigned citizens of Kentucky do now offer this opportunity to all those who desire to join in this testimony to the sterling worth, the great intellect, the truth, the honor and the courage of this martyr to the cause of civil liberty and the prosperity and happiness of the whole people, to contribute such sums as they may wish to the perpetuation in marble of that which will live in their hearts—a loving memory of William Goebel.

Every contribution will be acknowledged by the committee to whom it is sent, by a certificate which will be a memento.

Those who feel able to give only small amounts should not hesitate to contribute, as this fund is created for the purpose of affording a loving home opportunity to participate in a love offering. An organization of the contributors has been formed for carrying out the purpose of the contributors.

The above is a circular distributed over the State. The committee designated to receive funds in this county are J. S. Frazier, cashier of the Exchange Bank; G. W. Baird, cashier of the Traders Deposit Bank; W. B. O'Connell, County Clerk; N. R. Bright, Circuit Clerk; M. O. Cockrell and W. F. Horton.

John Dill, Evansville, Ind., says, "I never used anything as good as One Minute Cough Cure. We are never without it. Quickly breaks up coughs and colds. Cures all throat and lung trouble. Its use will prevent consumption. Pleasant to take."

Lookout For Him.

Here is a trick which an exchange reports. Lookout for the man who plays it. He claims to be an agent for a large clothing house in Chicago and carries some few samples of goods men's suits, which he claims to sell for $10 and are worth $40. He takes a man's measure who pays $2, an evidence of good faith. He represents that the goods are to be delivered in a week when the remainder is to be paid. The smart agent pockets the forfeit and that is the last of either the gent, $2 or suit of clothes.

HIS DYING WORDS.

"Tell my friends to be brave and fearless and remain loyal to the great common people."

—Gov. Wm. Goebel.

MILITARY GOVERNORS.

Two things, now historical, must not be forgotten, to wit: Kentucky has had two great military Governors:

1. W. O. Bradley who, during his term, organized the State militia with his partisans and used it to carry the next State election. He depended largely on foresight, and made success in elections almost sure, placing the system on a solid basis.

2. W. S. Taylor, who, during his term, used the militia to overthrow the Legislature and courts and to hold by force the office to which he was adjudged not to be entitled, and who filled the State offices and buildings with armed men, one of whom shot and killed the opponent contesting his right to the office. He depended also on hindsight, and placed the holding of office on a solid basis.

Kentucky will never see their like again.

If the mass of the Democrats throughout the nation uphold the attempted seizure of the State offices by Beckham and his fellows, it is only a question of time until some "esar" Napoleon will seize power with the strong hand and, standing aside the constitution of the United States, will proclaim and maintain himself as national dictator. —Englewood Outlook.

My Dear Brother Estill where you have been for the past month! We are sorry to be compelled to notify you that a little mountaineer with about a thimble-full of brains has already tried to play the Caesar Napoleon act in state affairs, supported by a partisan militia and thousands of boyish moonshiners, bushwhackers and cut-throats. This looks very much like monarchical form of government to us.

We favor an amount sufficient to bring Gov. Goebel's assassins within the reach of the courts, nothing more or less. To our minds it seems $25,000 together with the amount the brothers propose to offer, would be sufficient. If more money must be expended we would rather expend the balance proposed in a monument, which would ever perpetuate the name of our martyred Governor, the friend of the common people. When generations wry down the future look upon that monument, there would come to them the sentence:

"Tell my friends to be brave and fearless and loyal to the great common people."

The name of P. B. Turner is mentioned among the prospective candidates for Jailer of Montgomery county. Mr. Turner has been a life-long Democrat and should he enter the contest will make a winning race.

TRIBUTE TO GOV.

WILLIAM GOEBEL.

To give space to a tribute to Gov. Goebel, written by Mr. J. M. Richardson, a man who had known him long and intimately, Democrat of like metal, who had gone out together in thought, who abode in the same Democratic structure, we offer no apology to our champions of the same cause. Soldiers contending for those principles which both protect and elevate the common people, we offer no apology.

"I will do my duty. If I fall, my death will be to the Democratic party what the blowing up of the Maine was to Cuba."

"Tell my friends to be brave and fearless and loyal to the great common people."

When William Goebel died by foul assassin hand, a most masterful man and mind went down into the valley of the shadow of death. He towered above his race like Saul of old; he fell as falls the mighty forest-oak riven by the lightning of the storm. A stealthy murderer, an unerring aim; a bullet that sped true to its horrid intent—and the deed that even the fiends of hell shriek and shrink from, is done. Snuffed out as a candle in the night-watches, the end comes to a life barely blossoming into its rich fruition of promise and deed. None like him came before him; none like him will follow after him. There is none left to baffle his bow.

He sleeps his last sleep. He has fought his last battle. No sound can awake him to glory again.

Boys all bethold as the horror of his death, the crown of martyrdom flings across life that was once living tragically. Born in poverty; reared in surroundings most humble; fighting the battle of life grimly, single-handed with a desperation that never flung or faltered; with a soul that will strengthen as opposition grew fierce, success came to him winging from reluctant fate as messages of war and victory. He was a born fighter—for no leader can stand in the front rank of battle unless he fights—and that he was a leader created of God even his enemies, now that he is under the sod, Israel submit. For him no rose ever bloomed over the garden-wall of politics; for him there were thorns all along the pathway of life—even to the crown at the end; for him the struggle of every day was swayed by the fierce tempest of India; but in him there was no advance; over the bodies of his enemies. No mortal man was ever more relentlessly pursued by his foes—none ever rallied more devoted friends around him. From the hour when, a mere stippling, his life was placed in his hands, he was the mark of venom, of malice, of envy, and of persecution. All that he accepted, with a chivalrous defiance, as his lot in life. Brought for blow; he struck back with rapier-tuft; face to face with his enemies he stood man to man, and fought with unflinch. Small wonder that he triumphed—for in truth he was a tycoon Andrew Jackson of a man—the incarnation of American manhood.

He was honest. In all the heat of the brutal contest from which he emerged, and we but emerged, not once was his personal honesty called in question. With dollars by the thousand spent up in his path for the mounting, the full term of his office holding was without spot or blemish. "For one consultation I have," he astutely exclaimed when the fight against him was fiercest, "is that no man can truly accuse me of corruption, or dishonesty in [fill in]."

Founded on the backbone of sturdy mount, even the snarling backsliders, the black winged vultures of corruption, fled and fled to pluck us heart out, the slimy things neoproducing as men but quaking to the devil's bidding, mold they do not him, daid not attack his good name. Temptation immorally beset him; but, whether they came to him or was he drawn to them, the longing of personal revenge, he tested them all aside and esteemed them but crass. He was a honest man, and none the monument to be erected above his grave he asked no prouder line than that:

It was brave. And if there was one weak spot in the complete armor of William Goebel it was a glacially coldness of his reputation for personal courage. Upon that, he brooked neither reflection nor imputation. It is an open secret that, weeks before his assassination, his closest friends warned him of his impending fate, and entreated him to protect himself. His reply was, "If I spare myself my cause will suffer. I will do my duty, let the consequences be what they may." The shadow of the Suford encounter darkened his life, but it was a fair an open fight in which Suford was slain fighting upon him, and for which he was accounted. Tast the blood tragedy left a haunting memory those who were close to him knew best all. A few days before he himself was cut down, he declared to a friend:

John Suford was a brave, chivalrous gentleman. His death was brought about by men worse than cowards who stirred up the evil he was in, hurried with whisper-schools to his door and at last forced the killing which I have never ceased to regret. The same pack of cowardly hellhounds—no two of whom will go into a room with mock the door and try conclusions man to man—are snapping at my heel now and plotting further trouble for

BATTLE KEPT UP.

Gen. Cronje Still Holds His Position But It Is Being More Hopeless Than Ever.

BRITISH CLOSING IN ON ALL SIDES.

The General Himself Willing to Surrender But the Young Boers Will Not Permit Him.

The Boers Reported to Have Plenty of Provisions, but to Be Running Short of Ammunition—Latest News from the Front.

Pretoria, Orange Free State, Feb. 24.—Gen. Cronje's position is more hopeless than ever. The British forces are closing in on all sides. Our guns dominate the sloping areas. From the river banks, and by the rush of the Elandspruit, which yesterday night up the river bed the Boers lost 300 yards space in their cover.

Deserters say the British fire has been very deadly, and affirm that Gen. Cronje is willing to surrender, but is overruled by the young Boers from the Transvaal.

There are women and children with the Boer forces. On Wednesday Lord Roberts issued an order that a safe conduct for the women and children, together with a free pass to any point for them, and also an offer of doctors and medicine. Cronje's reply was a curt refusal, and deputized staff were removed.

The koppie captured by the British last Wednesday, when 50 prisoners were taken, is a most important strategical position. Its possession should prevent us from retaking Boer reinforcements from the north.

The British took 50 prisoners as the result of Friday's engagement.

A balloon ascended and discovered several new works, while the British guns were removed.

The scene of the last seven days' fighting is one of the prettiest spots in South Africa. The river at the point where Gen. Cronje is encamped and fighting for life resembles some part of the Hudson River. The hills all round sloping toward the stream. All the highlands are covered by British artillery. Cronje is faced in the front and rear from both banks by the British, while Gen. French's horse, far away on the flanks, presents a sturdy line of Boers.

BOERS MAKE A STAND.

Details of the Battle Which Raged at Grobler's Kloof All Day Thursday and Friday.

Coleenso, Natal, Feb. 24.—The Boers who had been encamped made a stand at Grobler's Kloof at Grobler's Kloof and on a range of hills running east and west. They had been forced from all their positions on the right.

Gen. Lyttelton's division on Thursday advanced under cover of the koppies. The Boers had a crooked and a "long iron." The British artillery was well sheltered in action at daybreak and until late in the afternoon when a heavy fire hit both sides developing.

The British infantry had advanced a mile and a half and a continuous fire was kept up until after dark. The Boers struck to their positions. The British artillery was irregular. The Boers were now down to the thickly wooded spots and ravines from which the Boer was hardest. The Boers sent shells close to the headquarters, baggage close to the horses, but no material damage was done. Gen. Wynne was slightly wounded.

The Boer positions are not considered strong with the exception of Grobler's "iron." The hills eastward are high and difficult to be entrenched so well as the mountainous which the British have taken.

The Somersets were the first across the pontoon on Wednesday evening. They were subjected to a heavy fire for five hours before they could get across. It was the first time they had been under fire and they behaved excellently.

Early on Friday a severe rifle fire was resumed on the right and front from the position held over night by both sides. The mountain and gun batteries shelled the Boer trenches incessantly. The Boers replied with two heavy guns, their shells bursting over the heads of the British. As soon as the British were removed.

During the afternoon the fifth brigade, the Inniskillings and Dublin Fusiliers, began to advance up the hill. In spite of the constant shelling the British moved in the direction of the Boers, pushing them back, driving them deliberately down the hill. The infantry advance was further covered by parties on the right and left firing volleys. It was slow, the British taking advantage of every bit of natural cover. The losses were great on both sides. The British reached the top of the hill as well as from the trenches part of the way down, poured lead along the advancing line. At dark the British infantry had reached within a few hundred yards of the first line of Boer trenches.

CAPT. MONTMORENCY KILLED.

Scouts From Gen. Gatacre's Forces Compelled to Retreat After Sustaining Severe Losses.

Sterkstroom, Feb. 25.—A reconnaissance Saturday in force under Gen. Gatacre, fought a sharp fight with Boers occupying a ridge three miles beyond Molteno, in the Storberg direction. Montmorency's scouts charged the Boers, who crept around the scouts' flank, pouring a deadly fire. The scouts were finally compelled to retire, suffering severely. Capt. Montmorency was killed.

The reconnaissance was valuable and would have been most satisfactory had it not been for the unfortunate disaster to the scouts, with whom Lieut. Col. Hoad happened to be. Their loss was four killed and many wounded and missing.

BRITISH ATTACKED.

Boer Reinforcements Lose Many Killed and Wounded and Nearly One Hundred Prisoners.

London, Feb. 25.—The war office publishes the following dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated at Paardeberg, February 24, at 12:30 p. m.:

"Parties of Boers recently arrived from Natal attacked our outposts in force against Ysterplaat. They lost a good many killed and wounded and nearly 100 prisoners, including a commanding and three field cornets. Our casualties were four officers wounded, nine men killed, 23 men wounded and two men missing. On Feb. 21st and 22d 100 officers and 1200 men were wounded."

"During the advance to and at Klipfontein the casualties were: Officers, 2 killed, 13 wounded; men, 4 killed, 78 wounded."

RUNNING SHORT OF AMMUNITION.

London, Feb. 25.—A dispatch to the Morning Post from Kimberley, dated Friday, says: "Gen. Cronje is reported to be running short of ammunition. Mr. Rhodes is extremely hopeful that the war has reached its concluding stage."

URGING KRUGER TO SURRENDER.

London, Feb. 26.—The Times publishes the following dispatch from Johannesburg, dated Saturday: "The British are now within two miles of being in touch with Ladysmith, but the ground still to be covered is the hardest part, and very severe fighting must be expected."

READY FOR THE CHAIR.

New York, Feb. 26.—Everything is in readiness for the election of Antonio Ferraro in the electric chair at Sing Sing. The execution is set for the coming week, and the last details have been attended to and the usual tests have been made. Ferraro, condemned to execution, has resigned himself to fate. He is nervous and says he will go to the chair without trouble. This is more than was expected. The loss of all hope has given him a wonderful change in the mind. He has lost the animal and violent manner which marked his conduct all through his long imprisonment.

On April 4, 1898, in a fight with a Brooklyn countymen, Luciano Machino, in Brooklyn, Ferraro cut his opponent's throat with a razor, killing him instantly.

The British infantry had advanced a mile and a half and a continuous fire was kept up until after dark. The Boers struck to their positions. The British artillery was irregular. The Boers were now down to the thickly wooded spots and ravines from which the Boer was hardest. The Boers sent shells close to the horses, but no material damage was done. Gen. Wynne was slightly wounded.

The Boer positions are not considered strong with the exception of Grobler's "iron." The hills eastward are high and difficult to be entrenched so well as the mountainous which the British have taken.

The Somersets were the first across the pontoon on Wednesday evening. They were subjected to a heavy fire for five hours before they could get across. It was the first time they had been under fire and they behaved excellently.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Elder Troubles Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspaper is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Klimer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder disease. It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered and made scientific research by Dr. Klimer, the eminent physician and older specialist. It is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid trouble, Bright's Disease, which is the kidney trouble.

Dr. Klimer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you will just read the story you will find just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, in the office of too good a physician and a man has proved it successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by all readers of the paper who have any trouble with their kidneys to send me a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

"We will send you a sample bottle after in this paper and send your address to Dr. Klimer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. Price, fifty cent and Home of Swamp-Root sizes are sold by all good druggists.

is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive tracts are performed processes which are exactly akin to the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that it is a stomach churn "sour" it sour's all which is put into it? The evil of a foul stomach is not the bad taste in one mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of the blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Piero's Gold's Medical Discovery makes the sour stomach swell. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tantalizing or corrupting element. "Gold's Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant and no salts.

When I left the mountain trees, shrubs, and herbs—without even a spear of grass—it seemed to me that gold has the same effect upon the soil that holds it upon the man who lives and labors only for it. It affects the soul as it does the man. It leaves the heart barren, without a flower of kindness, without blossoms of pity,

Words Fifty Told.

In the Shelby News is a report of the remarks of Rev. W. F. Taylor at the funeral of Latrice W. Demaree, who was killed at Frankfort. He said: "We are leaving Christian civilization and going back into barbarism. This is the time and place to speak of these things. Here in the sight of God, in the presence of death, on our way to judgment. * * * What are we doing to correct it? If these mutinous lips had again the power of utterance would they not urge us to duty? What we need is to recognize the majesty of law, the rights of property, the claims of social purity, the sanctity of human and the sovereignty of God!"

THE MODERN SPORTSWOMAN.

New Conditions Have Developed New Types of Womanhood.

Not so very long ago society would have been shocked if a lady had ventured on the streets in a dress reaching only to her shoe tops. To-day society pays no more attention to such a costume than it does to trolley cars or the automobile, and for once society has done the sensible thing. The modern tailor-made girl is a product of conditions. The bicycle jumped into popular favor with the invention of the pneumatic tire, this feature making riding a pleasure; a few American women with a love for the out-of-doors at once braved the critics' tongues and learned to ride. Society held up its hands and wagged its tongue, but those sensible women still rode their wheels, and in riding found the long trailing skirt a nuisance, so they promptly cut it off at the bottom. Again society was horrified, but the skirt did not lengthen. Society accepted the new conditions and began to fall in line. The skirt, meanwhile, was being experimented with, and went from one design to another, undergoing swift changes for better or worse, until to-day it has reached the plain, neat and practical "tailor-made" style that we see in every town in the land, and the woman who appears on the street in a short skirt and shirt waist, sans finery and almost sans trimming, knows that she is not conspicuous, and she must be far more comfortable, to say the least. The influence of the wheel does not stop with changing the costume, however, for it lures the rider away from the city—carries him or her smoothly and swiftly out along the country roads and shows nature to the populace. The natural result is a desire to know more about the things that are seen by the wayside, and it comes to pass that the girl in the short skirt is apt to know how to handle a gun and run traps through woods or field with her male partner and enjoy the trip, and shoot her bird on the wing, if need be, too. Also she has been initiated into the mysteries of rod and reel, and many a fly cast by dainty hands to day from one end of the broad land to the other. The boating girl is as familiar to us as the boating man, and she is a decided success as a mermaid, usually taking to the surf naturally as a duck, and she can usually swim better than her big brothers, too. The sportswoman is decidedly in evidence to-day, and she has learned the value of an outdoor existence already and is fast taking the place of her pale companion who loves a stuff of lace and other feminine playthings. The sportswoman comes to stay and is none the less feminine, none the less lovable by reason of her love for the out-of-doors. May her shadow never grow less.—Fisher and Stream.

FLYING A KITE.

Predication of Some Boys Happily Solved by a Bicycle Rider.

Bicycles have been put to use for more than the one purpose of pleasure and riding over country roads. Policemen, firemen and ambulances have been summoned by men on wheels, and occasionally a thief is overtaken by the bicycle police. The small boy has used his wheel, like an experienced horseman on a pony, while playing polo. The latest use, however, to which a wheel has been put is in flying a kite.

A number of boys on the Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, the other afternoon engaged in trying to fly a kite, but the wind was not strong enough to raise the kite, nor were any of the boys fleet-footed enough to get the kite high in the air. Suddenly a man came down the boulevard riding a wheel. "Hey, boy," he said to the boys, "raise this kite, will you?"

The policeman stopped, and the boy explained that if he could take hold of the string fastened to the kite, get on his wheel and start off, at the same time allowing the cord to run free through his fingers, the kite would rise. This the wheelman did, and after riding his bicycle at full speed for about three blocks he slowed up, and much to his surprise, found that the kite was high in the air. The boys who gave him their kite were far behind. Another boy, one of the gang, was in waiting and came running up to the side of the kite.

"Much obliged, boy. I'll take her now. Thanks!"

The kite was up, the wheelman rode away and the small boy all looked happy.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

In the Election of Senators.—Senator Jones Says it Will be Demanded in the Democratic Platform.

A special feature of the election of United States senators is direct vote on the presidential election something that will be a plank in the platform of the Democratic party, according to Jones of the Deaconess Hospital Committee.

I have no doubt but that the election is to be a success on the present system of electing a Senator who have been so well informed and educated the past few years, and change is to be made, Senator Jones said. "I am quite confident that the Democratic platform will have such a resolution. The constitution prescribes the methods by which this change can be obtained."

Almost A Daily—At the Price of a Weekly.

The most widely circulated weekly newspaper in America is the Three-a-Week edition of the New York World, and with the Presidential campaign now at hand you can not do without it. Here are some of the reasons why it is the leader in dollar a year journalism.

It is issued every other day, and is to all purposes a daily. Every week each subscriber receives 18 pages and often during the "busy" season 24 pages each week.

The price is only $1.00 per year. It is virtually a daily at the price of a weekly.

Its news covers every known part of the world. No weekly newspaper could stand alone and furnish such service.

The Three-a-Week World has at its disposal all of the resources of the greatest newspaper in existence—the wonder of modern journalism—"America's Greatest Newspaper," as it has been justly termed—The New York World.

Its political news is absolutely impartial. This fact will be of especial value in the Presidential campaign coming on.

The best of current fiction is found in its columns.

These are only some of the reasons; there are others. Read it and see them all.

We offer this unequalled newspaper and "The Advocate" together for one year for $1.65.

On account of the cold, only communion service was held at the Christian Church on Sunday morning. Usual evening service.

The Ladies Missionary Society, with the First Presbyterian Church, will meet at the home of Mrs. L. T. Clark, on Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, "The American Indian."

At Paris, on next Sunday evening, all the congregations will unite in a welcome service at the Christian Church, in honor of Rev. Lloyd Davis, the new pastor.

Rev. J. J. Dukes, of Campion, preached at Sharpburg on Sunday for the pastor, Rev. A. P. Jones, who held a very successful meeting at the Campion Methodist Church. Up to Thursday night there had been thirty converts.

Rev. W. J. Bolin, on account of a violent attack of grippe was not able to fill his pulpit on Sunday. Rev. Henry, dismissed his congregation to the First Church and gave to the members a sample of his services.

Mr. J. C. B. Miller, another who is cold and feverish, is doing well.

Mr. A. J. Jeplin, will have his house next Sabbath, 7 P. M. All will be given a hearty welcome after meeting Wednesday at 7:15. Subject: "Salvation through Christ."

Rev. E. H. Pearce, of Kentucky Wesleyan College, preached at Mt. Holston church in the city on Sunday morning and evening, presenting the Twentieth Century Educational movement. The offering from this congregation thus far is $1,600, which includes the offering of $900 from Mr. John O'Rear. This congregation is the fifth in the State to take such an offering. The total of the five is about $7,000. Since January 1, 1899, the amount raised for this fund in the U. S. approximates about $1,600,000. The congregation here was attentive and interested.

Sunday evening we had the pleasure of hearing the Rev. Jeplin at the First Presbyterian Church, pastor Bolin being so much indisposed that he could not serve his congregation. Mr. Jeplin has a gift of going right down after facts and presenting the Gospel in a clear, logical and forcible manner.

He also impresses the visitor that he has a cordial welcome to his house of worship. We are glad we have this good man and a good preacher to join in the efforts of others to bring light out of chaos in Mt. Sterling.

Rev. Henry McDonald, D. D., Atlanta, Ga., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Shively Baptist church. Dr. McDonald is past 68 years old, vigorous, wise, religious. He was born in Ireland, formerly a Catholic, became a Baptist preacher in 1854 and preached many years in this state, serving both as a County and city pastor. Was pastor at Richmond, Va., and Atlanta, Ga. He served the second church eighteen years and from this place he returns to Kentucky to the brethren who have always delighted to do him honor. The Atlanta church said good bye in the following beautiful sentiment:

"He has been with us in our times of joy with a heart full of good cheer. He has been with us in our times of sorrow with a heart full of sweetest sympathies. He has betrayed no man's confidence; he has made no trouble between brethren; he has tried to be the servant and not the master of the people; he has led our children to the Savior, and spoken words of encouragement to them along the journey of life; he has gone down into the heart with our fathers and mothers, and spoken words of hope to them, as they entered into the flesh. Such a preacher and pastor is welcomed back to Kentucky home. We congratulate the Baptist flock at Shelbyville.

Buy From a Responsible Firm.

For about twenty years, we have had semi-annual articles in regard to the Bluegrass Nursery, Lexington, Ky., with only this in view. To persuade the people to try Mr. Hillenmeyer's stock, and to quit patronizing every boy or irresponsible person who comes along with beautiful pictures and a learned story of each variety. It is hardly needful to say more now, for Mr. Hillenmeyer's stock is known, his ways are known, and the fruit will surely prove themselves to be just as ordered, adapted to our soil and climate. So much for purchasing from an experienced and reliable man, who is not after one vacation to-day and another to-morrow. It takes years to grow an orchard. Imagine the feelings of a man after toil and watching for years, he has for a winter apple, an early Horneff or some varieties, not all adapted to this soil. The buyers of trees who have had just such experience, buy from the unreliable tree peddler.

Again we warn our people and advise them to purchase from H. F. Hillenmeyer, Lexington, Ky.

THROAT REST

You can cough yourself into bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption.
Bandaging and banding your throat will do no good.

You must give your throat rest and allow the cough wounds to heal.

There is nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. Stop it by using

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Even the cough of early consumption is cured. And, later on, when the disease is firmly fixed, you can bring rest and comfort in every case.

A 25 cent bottle will cure new coughs and colds; the 50 cent size is better for old cases of bronchitis and weak lungs; the one dollar size is more economical for chronic cases and consumption. It's the size you should keep on hand.

"All families ought to be on the watch for early signs of consumption or acute lung troubles. Every country home should have Ayer's Cherry Pectoral constantly on hand to prevent trouble." — JOSIAH G. WILLIS, M.D., Toledo, Ohio.

Hints to Bread Makers.
(By L. R. Vetch.)

We have lately had numerous inquiries concerning the baking qualities of flour, and although we feel unqualified to approach the subject with full intent to bring out the exact analysis of flour, we hope to be able to say something regarding facts pertaining to the strength, the way flour should be kept, the cheapest flour to use, the things that often cause bad bread, and the way in which any house-wife can test the strength and the baking qualities of flour.

First, it is necessary to have an oven at the proper temperature; this is one part of the operation pertaining to making good bread, that is so often neglected. It is a mistaken idea, to conclude, that it is a fancy with some people, that a certain make, or brand of flour, produces better or worse bread than others, and that you can put flour of a different make in the brand that one has been using and they will not know the difference. We must admit however that there are novices on both sides of the situation, and that there are millers today who fail to keep their flour uniform, but where you find a flour that is made with some system, and by millers who know their business, there is kept up to a certain test at all times, and let good baker use this continually for a time, it would be hard to make a change in brands without detection. The first thing to do, after we have proficient baking arrangements, is to know the kind of flour to get hold of to make the desired bread. Do we have to bake this flour first to find out? No, if we did, the miller would have a pretty rough road to travel, as he would have to keep a baker by his side, continuously. So then we must proceed to test the strength of flour, before we could know what to use. The reader must know that it is the gluten, flour contains, that causes the rising to take place; thus we conclude that the flour containing the largest amount of gluten is, without doubt, the best and cheapest. It is cheapest because there are more losses or more dough to be had from a bag or barrel, than where there is only a small amount of gluten, so the way in which to ascertain the amount of gluten is as follows: We will say for example, take one half pt. of clear strained water, put it in an earthen vessel, then weigh the amount of flour you think the water will absorb, (we shall not attempt to give the exact weight of flour, for some flour will absorb more water than others) and add very slow, stirring with a spoon until dough is formed, then enter the hands kneading slowly until you have a soft, smooth dough. If the flour, you have weighed up, was too much, weigh the remainder and add the exact amount you have used; having kneaded the dough thoroughly, place it under an airtight cover, allowing it to remain one hour. We then take the dough, placing it in a bowl of clear strained water, wash it until the water becomes milky, pour off the water by straining through a fine cloth, so as to retain the gluten, you continue this washing until the water becomes clear, then weigh the gluten and you have the exact amount of water the flour consumed, also the amount of gluten it contained; having this, then it is an easy matter to ascertain how many pounds of dough the flour will make. A flour will only make 145 pounds of dough, while others make 160 and up. It is an easy matter then to decide what kind of flour to use, as you can get one as cheap as the other, so by getting the flour that contains the most gluten, you not only have a flour that will go further, but one that will make good, sweet bread, and also when you test your flour this way, you know if you have bad bread that it is sour yeast or something in the manipulation, and not the flour.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Cataract. Hall's Cataract Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Cataract being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Cataract Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.
